GREEN FLOORS, CLEAR CONSCIENCE

Our carpet tiles are fully REACH compliant — meaning they meet the highest standards for chemical safety in the EU.

REACH (Registration, Evaluation, Authorisation and Restriction of Chemicals) is a European Union regulation designed to protect human health and the environment from harmful chemicals. It ensures that manufacturers and importers take responsibility for understanding and managing the risks associated with the substances they use.

By choosing REACH-compliant carpet tiles, you're choosing products that are free from hazardous substances — better for your space, safer for your people, and smarter for the planet. It's one more way we're walking the talk on sustainability, without compromising on quality or price.

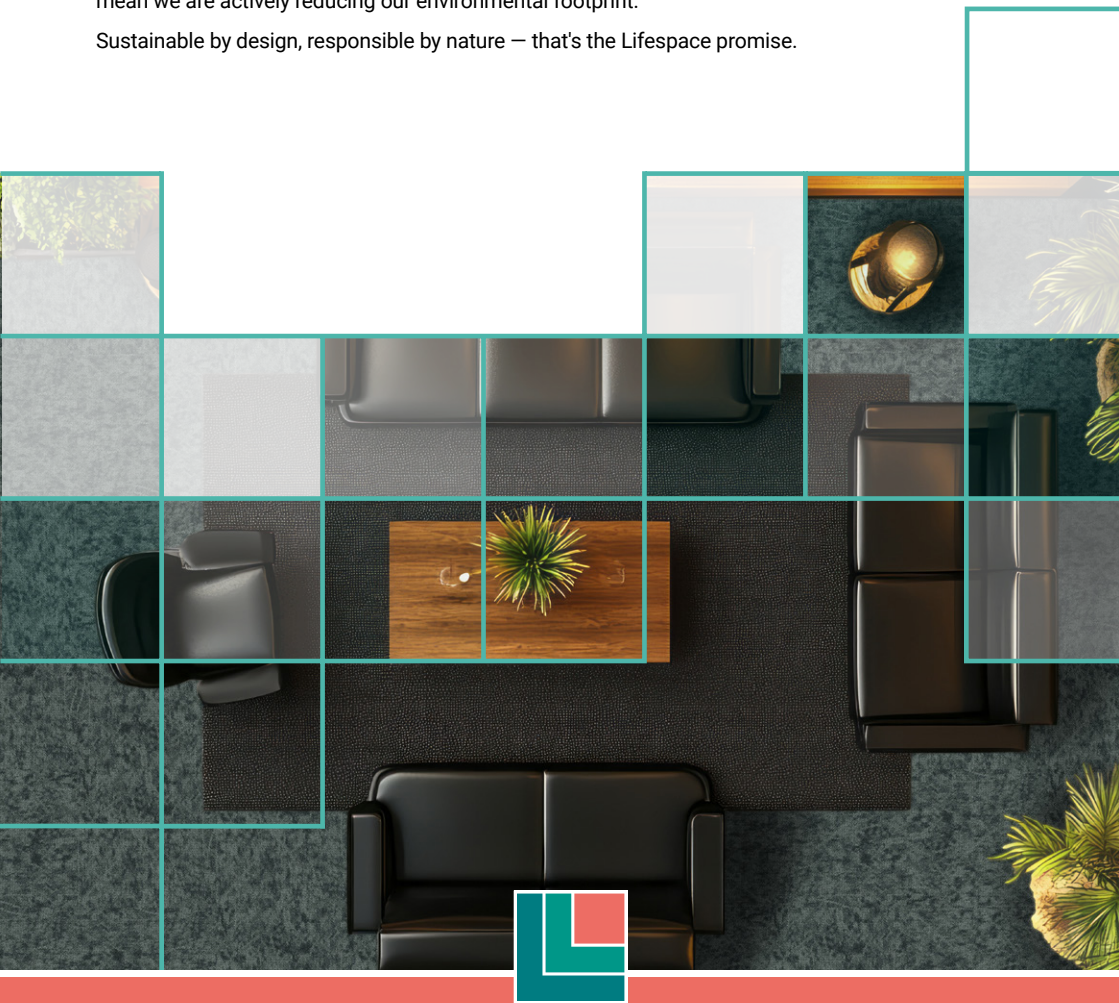

UK MADE. GLOBALLY MINDED.

Lifespace carpet tiles are proudly manufactured in the UK at a carbon-neutral facility accredited to ISO 9001 standards for quality management.

By producing locally, we cut down on transport emissions and support the regional economy. Our ISO 9001 certification ensures consistent, high-quality production with minimal waste — and our carbon-neutral operations mean we are actively reducing our environmental footprint.

Sustainable by design, responsible by nature — that's the Lifespace promise.

SOLID BACKING. SOLID COMMITMENT.

Sustainability is built into every layer of our tiles — right down to the backing.

We are proud to share that the backing on three of our key ranges contain 100% recycled calcium carbonate filler — a reclaimed material sourced from industrial waste streams like the manufacture of glass and ceramics.

By giving this material a second life, we are:

- Diverting valuable resources from landfill
- Cutting the carbon footprint of our products — without compromising on performance

This innovative filler helps us deliver durable, stable, high-performing carpet tiles while staying true to our mission: designing for the future, not just the floor.

WE'LL TAKE IT BACK. GIVE IT NEW LIFE.

At Lifespace, we believe great design shouldn't end in landfill. That's why we offer a Carpet Tile Take-Back Scheme — a smarter, more sustainable way to close the loop.

When your tiles reach the end of their life, we will take them back and ensure they're responsibly recycled or repurposed, keeping valuable materials in use and waste out of the environment.

Our take-back scheme means:

- Zero landfill commitment for your used tiles
- Materials are processed for reuse or recycling into new products
- You support a circular economy that protects the planet and reduces demand for virgin resources

Whether you're refreshing a workspace or renovating on a larger scale, Lifespace makes it easy to design with sustainability in mind — from supply to sustainability.

Because supply should support sustainability — every step of the way.
